ELECTRIC CITY SPARKLETS

Items of Interest and Personal Mention Caught Over the Wireless on the Streets of Anderson

Anderson Exhibit

Attracted Attention.
Anderson people returning to the city yesterday from the State Fair at Columbia, said that they were actually proud of the splendid showing made by the exhibit sent from this county. It compared very favorably indeed with the exhibits from other sections of the state and most Anderson people considered it superior to anything they saw from other counties. One particular attraction to be found in the Anderson booth was the mammoth watermelon, winner of the first prize at the Belton Fair. This excited much envy on the part of the other demonstrators from different sections of South Carolina. J. W. Rothrock who was in charge of the Anderson exhibit says that he was well pleased and expects some results to accrue from the showing made at Columbia.

Anderson Citizens

Are Paying Taxes.
The clerk at the treasurer's office said yesterday that Anderson citizens are paying their taxes at a lively rate and that this is certainly one feature of business affairs in the State not seriously crippled by the cries of hard times. The tax books were opened on October 16 and since that time a large number of property owners have already settled up. One feature being neglected is that of poll tax on the part of those whose names heretofore did not appear on the tax books. The club rolls used in the recent primary election were carefully gone over and something like 1,000 names secured. These people will have to pay their poll tax before December 31 or suffer a penalty.

Lebanon Man

Is in Earnest.

One of the interesting visitors to the city yesterday was John Smith of Lebanon, an avowed candidate for the seat in Congress now occupied by Wyatt Aiken. Mr. Smith believes that the people occupying government positions could have done more to help the South during the present crisis than has been the case. The Lebanon planter is very much in earnest about his race for the National House of Representatives and he will have some interesting things to say to Anderson voters when the race begins.

Anderson Interested

In School Endeavors.

Both Miss Maggie M. Garlington, supervisor of rural schools for Anderson county, and J. B. Felton, the county superintendent of education, have been spending the week in Columbia attending the State Fair. Miss Garlington and Mr. Felton were especially interested in that part of the fair week devoted to the School Improvement Association work. The exhibit sent to the fair, showing a model rural school, how to get the best results from these schools and how to interest both patrons and pupils in the school, proved to be one of the most popular places on the fair ground. Mr. Felton, when he returned to the city last night, said that he had learned several things in Columbia and would put some of the new ideas into execution in Anderson.

Anderson Proud

Of "Home Hopes."

Anderson people are proud of the splendid showing made by the Anderson members of the Clemson football squad. In Thursday's game with Carolina, played on the fair ground field at Columbia, "Tandy" Webb and "Young Rip" Major were the shining lights for the Clemson aggregation and they both distinguished themselves by their brilliant playing. A number of Anderson people were present for the game and they enthused over the splendid work of the local boys, as well as their teammates.

Gifted Speaker

Is Coming Here.

Dr. John G. Clinkscales of Wofford college will draw an enormous crowd when he speaks in this city tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The Spartanburg man is one of the most gifted speakers in South Carolina and he is not only an orator but he always has a real message to deliver. Dr. Clinkscales will speak in the auditorium at Orr Cotton mill and it is a foregone conclusion that the large hall will be unable to accommodate the numbers desiring to hear the address.

Next Friday to Witness Battle.

"He stood on the bridge at twilight in his muddy football clothes—The bridge, by the way, belonged to The rival half-back's nose."

Something like the above may be applied without mistake to the scenes Spartanburg people will witness next Friday afternoon when the Anderson High School football team journeys over to Wofford Fitting School to get revenge for the defeat experienced by the local team when the visitors came here a fortnight ago and won from the A. H. S. The local boys say that they will win this game or come home crippled for life.

New Locate

In New Office.

The Western Union Telegraph Company moved yesterday from the temporary quarters it has been occupying in the Ligon & Ledbetter old building to the handsome rooms in the new building. Manager Howard said that he disliked to move before all of his new furniture arrived but the cold weather left him no choice. This is one of the prettiest offices in the city and when the new furniture arrives and is in place the Anderson telegraph office will be second to none in this part of the State.

Many Want the

R. F. D. Positions.

Following the notice issued by the postal authorities of the government that an examination will be held on November 14 to fill two vacancies as R. F. D. carriers on two routes from Iva, applicants for the positions have sprung up from all sides. One visitor from Iva spending yesterday in Anderson said that he understood over 100 applicants had already signified their intention of undergoing the examination, although it is hardly probable that such a number will be in attendance when the day finally rolls around.

Little Boy Had

Fracture of Arm.

John R. Cochran, postmaster at this point, received information yesterday to the effect that his little son, John R., Jr., had suffered a broken arm while at play in Savannah, Ga. A number of Anderson people know the little lad and they will all regret to hear of his meeting with the accident.

Rise Here in

Price of Cotton.

Anderson people were more convinced yesterday afternoon that better times are coming than they have been in some time, when they learned that the price of cotton on the local market had advanced from 6 3/4 cents per pound to 7 cents per pound. It is believed that this increase will continue, although a number of Anderson planters will be turning their cotton loose today if the price remains at 7 cents throughout the day.

Big Decrease in

Cotton Ginnings.

According to the report of the Department of Commerce, made public yesterday, the total ginnings of cotton from the 1914 crop up until October 18 amounted to 25,888 bales, as compared with 30,775 bales prior to October 18 in the year 1913. These figures were compiled for Anderson county by L. A. Bolt and it is probable that they will cause some surprise, since few people believed that there was shortage in this county's crop.

Plows on the

Bargain Counter.

The State Hardware Co. has put 25 Oliver Plows on the "Bargain Counter" within the past week or ten days, and are selling them in the local market at a simply as a "trade stimulator" and Mr. Shanklin reported to an Intelligence man yesterday that they had oversold the original twenty-five plows, and as the people had responded to the advertisement so nicely he was going to put on another sale of these standard plows at the same reduced prices.

He Knows One

Real Good Town.

H. M. Taylor, the manager of a crew of men who are sampling Anderson with "Clean Easy" soap; and who, by the way, has sold almost every grocer in the city, says that Anderson is one of the best cities that he has seen throughout the South.

Belgian Minister

Makes an Appeal.

Mr. Emmanuel Havenith, Belgian minister at Washington, has appealed to the American people for relief for the women and children of that country, who have, as non-combatants, suffered more than any part of Europe as a result of the present war and are in dire need of relief. His Eminence, James Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, has been named as honorary president of the relief committee. An appeal is made to the whole American people for this great object. The suffering of Belgian women and children and other non-combatants, who have been made homeless and destitute by the invasion of their country, has aroused the generous sympathy of the American people. In behalf of this appeal, the Rt. Rev. H. P. Northrop, of the Roman Catholic church of South Carolina has ordered that a special collection be taken up in all the churches of his diocese on next Sunday, November 1.

Same Old Story.

Early in her speech the militant suffragist struck the key-note of emancipation from masculine control. "The day of tyranny is past," she said. "Men may command, but we no longer obey."

It was a stirring speech. At intervals throughout its delivery an insignificant looking little man in the rear of the hall called out "Louder, please," and each time the speaker pitched her voice in a higher key. When, in obedience to his often repeated requests, she had apparently attained a vocal limit she said:

"Can you not hear what I say?" "Perfectly," said the little man. "They who have you been asking me to speak louder?" "Just to show," said he, "that in spite of your ragging a great, fine woman like you will still do what a little no account man like me asks her to."—N. Y. Times

He Was a Great Man.

One afternoon Elizabeth and Nellie were in the library, discussing books when Elizabeth said:

"I have read a grand book called 'The Last Days of Pompeii.'"

Nellie: "Imagine it was fine. By the way, who was he?"

Elizabeth began laughing heartily and Nellie beginning to feel angered, said:

"Well, you needn't be laughing so, I know he was some great man."

Settle Loss

Appraisers Are Here Trying to Agree on Some Settlement of Fire Loss Garage.

Lee A. Folger of Charlotte, one of the appraisers selected to take part in the negotiations looking toward the settlement of the fire loss sustained by Judge S. Fowler when his garage was burned in May, has arrived in the city to represent the fire insurance companies at a hearing. Mr. Fowler's representative, T. B. Earle, returned to the city several days ago and is ready to go into the question of a settlement as soon as Eugene Eskew, the third member of the appraising board, can be induced to come to Anderson. It is understood that Mr. Folger is willing to try to reach some conclusion with Mr. Earle in regard to the amount of insurance to be paid, but Mr. Earle is unwilling for this and there the matter rests.

It is probable that some two or three days may yet elapse before the loss is finally adjusted.

It will be remembered that Fowler's garage, containing about 49 automobiles, was burned one day in May. Mr. Fowler had $22,000 insurance and the difficulties met with in reaching a settlement are due to the inability of either the insurance companies or Mr. Fowler to reach an understanding regarding the worth of the burned machines.

STREET RAILWAY WILL EXPERIMENT

Following the announcement made yesterday by the Southern Public Utilities Company to the effect that an attempt was to be made to run the North Anderson street car with only one employee, acting in the dual capacity of motorman and conductor, John W. Linley of the North Anderson Development Company and the man who made the extension of the car line in North Anderson possible, talked interestingly to a reporter for The Intelligencer.

It is a known fact that the street car system in Anderson has been hard hit by the recent business depression and that the company's annual desire to retrench is only natural but Mr. Linley does not like the idea of North Anderson being chosen for the first step.

Mr. Linley said that the first information that his company had of the reduction of the crew was when it was published in the newspapers. He said that he went to see Mr. Orr immediately and that Mr. Orr stated that business had fallen off on all the lines but that the North Anderson line was the only line where the traffic was evenly enough distributed to be handled by one man, that all the other lines went to mill villages where a large percentage of the traffic came on Saturdays and Sundays. Mr. Linley says that Mr. Orr assured him that the service on the North Anderson line would be in no way impaired. In fact that the men operating the North Anderson cars would be instructed to render every reasonable service to the patrons of this line.

Mr. Linley further stated that his company is well pleased with the traffic on the North Anderson line, in fact that the amount of travel had far exceeded their expectations.

Col. Wise

Will Return to Anderson Tuesday Night and Annual Settlement Will Be Made Wednesday.

Following a stay of several days in Anderson, Col. A. S. Wise of the office of the comptroller general, left yesterday for his home in Aiken to spend the week-end. Col. Wise has been here for the purpose of arranging the Anderson county books and getting ready for the annual settlement between the auditor and the treasurer. All arrangements for the settlement are now complete and with the books in first class condition the settlement will take place Wednesday morning. Col. Wise will return to the city Tuesday evening.

A NEW AND RADIANT MORNING IN THE SOUTH

By John Temple Graves.
After many a rain-swept and stormy evening, the skies have cleared at midnight to make entrance for a new and radiant morning.

It is so with the South. Out of the most serious financial shadow that it has known for half a century there is surely coming and now at hand, the day of better methods, wiser economies and more substantial prosperity than this section of our country has ever known.

Could be Worse!

One morning two men who chanced to meet at the club were talking of a young fellow of distinguished family whom they both knew very well. The young man had succeeded in dissipating the entire fortune left him the year before by his father, according to the New York Times.

"I'm really awfully sorry about it," said Dolan. "He must be in a bad way now."

"Yes, his affairs are in wretched shape," said Donnelly; "but just think how much poorer he would be if the old man had left him more!"

Thirty-two out of the fifty-four who have bought lots in North Anderson were not ready to build when they bought—(twenty-two have already built.

But--

They figured that by buying early they'd get a better selection—at less cost,—and that they would pay for their lots with money that would probably otherwise get away from them.
